DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Joseph T. Hatem house is a detached two and a half story, three bay by three bay frame dwelling with a two story two bay by four bay ell on the north side, containing a general store on the first floor. The house faces east on the corner of North Stokes and Franklin Streets while the store (now vacant) was entered from the northeast corner and the north elevation. Both building's were once covered with clapboards; now, they are asbestos sided.

A one bay entrance porch with an asphalt hipped roof over a molded entablature supported by brackets chamfered posts shelters the front door. The store has a four bay wrap around porch on the northeast elevation. The flat wood shingled roof is supported by turned and chamfered posts supported by scroll saw brackets.

Windows are arranged symmetrically on the facade. They have 6/6 light double hung pegged sash except on the first floor of the store. The east elevation has a tall four light window in the north bay with stationary sash and the north elevation, first floor has two double plate glass display windows with opaque stippled glass in the transoms above them. The attic gable contains a 6/6 light double hung sash window with a upper sash terminating in a triangle.

The main entrance to the house is in the south bay of the east elevation. It has a four paneled door with ~~semicircular~~ arches in the upper panels flanked by chamfered piers and two light sidelights with molded panels beneath and a three light transoms. The store has two entrances, one in the three cornered northeast elevation and the other in the center of the north elevation. Both entrances contain double doors with glass in the upper half; and the north elevation doors retain their embossed cast iron hardware.

The house has a slate gable front roof with a bracketed molded box cornice, a fascia board on the south elevation and a brick central chimney. The L-shaped addition has a cross gable roof, covered with asphalt shingles and a plain box cornice.

A yard with a wooden fence is on the south and west of the structure.

Interior: The closed-string stairs on the south wall of the front hall have a hardwood hewel and handrail. The store remains as it was when it closed in the late 1960's.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Commercial ventures in Havre de Grace were not always, as today, mainly confined to the Central Business District. In the mid to late 19th century there were many small general stores serving small neighborhood units. Often these stores were in or attached to the home of the family who ran them. The 1885 Sanborn Insurance Map of Havre de Grace indicates that there were two to three grocery or general stores in each block of Stokes St. alone. Today less than a dozen of these small Ma and Pa stores still exist in the northern end of Havre de Grace. Included on the Sanborn Map is the building known as the Hatem House and Store.

The building itself is a two and a half story three bay by three bay frame dwelling with a two story two bay by four bay wing on the north side which contained a store on the first floor. With some attention to the structure's vernacular Italianate detail and its wrap around porch, the building could make a significant contribution to the almost completely preserved (although shabby) mid to late 19th century appearance of its neighborhood. The other key structure in the neighborhood is an old livery stable (HA-1104), directly across the street.
